FRIDAY MARCH 15

After his second melancholy experience with Bryan beware the lure of March?

If the Shriners don't like the rain let them admire the rainbows. There is always something worth while in these parts.

Krueger would like to have the Boer war go on but there are no vociferous seconds from General Cronje and the other guests of the King at St. Helena.

Ceslo Caesar Moreno may not be the best of witnesses at times but the essential truth of his Wilcox reminiscences is plain to most people who are at all familiar with the ins and outs of past Hawaiian politics.

The Speaker of the House opposed the Honolulu cable bill and for that reason it did not pass. The power of the Speaker is well-nigh absolute in such matters and this is not the first time Hawaii has suffered by it.

When the House of Representatives spends a goodly share of its time in wrangling over the spelling of the word "forty" its likeness to the Lincoln Club becomes really startling. "The Lincoln Club" may prove to be an adjective phrase.

The death of Wm. M. Evans removes a man who has long been out of public life but who has left a lasting imprint on the history of his times. As lawyer and statesman his place was equal to that of any man New York has ever sent to the Senate.

The coinage redemption bill could not be saved after the blundering of Wilcox. What Hawaiian bills succeeded were put through by others. So far as Congress is concerned Wilcox is now a mere lay figure that intelligent members point to with derision.

The Shriners are with us, red-fuzzed and therefore in shape to take on a Hawaiian tan. We trust that they will find the sands agreeably hot, the rope long and the oases many and green. We natives are easily handled and our poi-dog of war rarely barks. Saluam!

California farmers who employed the Examiner's "starving Porto Ricans" are tired of their job. We thought they would be. Meanwhile the Porto Ricans who escaped the Examiner mesh and came to Hawaii are doing well both for themselves and the plantations.

John E. Searles, the ruined magnate, was a bulwark of the sugar trust a few short years ago when the Hawaiian planters went to the Coast to confer with him. But speculation in sugar and other commodities has driven him to the wall in his old age. It is an impressive example of how even insiders may fare when they take risks in Wall street.

It is doubtful if the public advertising done here for two or three years past has brought a more desirable visitation than the Shriners. Certainly the results of the local Masonic effort exceed those which can be directly traced to Hawaii's exhibits at various fairs. The fact ought to encourage other local organizations to bring their over-sea brethren here. For instance, the Grand Army post might, if it tried, induce some hundreds of comrades to come here for a Memorial day and week observance.

Native Hawaiian members of the Legislature want very much to add their districts in acquiring public works, and some of them ask for large appropriations. Their only chance to get these favors, in the present state of Hawaiian finances, is to see that the treasury is not emptied beforehand to most extraordinary expenses, such as unadjudicated fire claims, royal pensions and the like. The Home Rule program calls for more money than the aggregate of taxes can supply; and it is not yet decided whether some of the new schemes for revenue, notably the income tax law, would prove constitutional. The Legislature will do better by those who elected it and by the public generally if it restrains its impulse to remove money from the treasury in large blocks to satisfy private claimants. The general public, which pays the taxes, should have the first benefit of their expenditure.

The health of San Francisco is a matter in which Honolulu has reason to feel much concern and about which it can get no facts from the metropolitan newspapers. The press, under threat of the great exporting and importing houses of San Francisco, has entered into a conspiracy of silence, and although plagues might stalk at midnight the papers would say nothing. What news Honolulu gets comes in dribs and drabs through private correspondence and ordinary news columns. The latest data from San Francisco is of special importance in that it reveals the existence of a smallpox epidemic there and of the continuation of the bubonic plague. It is now suggested that Honolulu's plague of last year came from San Francisco. That possibility should inspire the greatest vigilance here among the Federal health authorities.

Of the women on the ill-fated Rio but three were saved. In the struggle for existence, there as elsewhere, the weaker went to the wall. There is no chivalry in a panic.

The favorable reports taken back to the Coast by returning financiers ought to be the means of adding to the reputation of Hawaiian values in other markets than those of California.

The Hoers seem to be on the point of giving up the war. Kitchener's harsh measures, taken against the Boer sympathizers, seem to have turned the hearts of the civilians in the Transvaal and Orange colonies towards peace at any price. This in turn has kept the fighting farmers from getting much aid, either in men, ammunition or food, from the working farmers.

The tax bill, requiring the payment of two per cent on all salaries or incomes in excess of $1,000, differs materially from the Federal bill passed in Cleveland's time so far as the minimum basis of income is concerned. Under that instrument a person in receipt of less than $4,000 per annum went free. The local minimum of $1,000 would make the tax fall too heavily on weak shoulders.

Whatever the Legislature may do for the Tramway will doubtless be turned down by Congress. It would be no trouble to send Washington a memorial against the franchise bid of the absentee corporation, with the names of nearly every property owner in Honolulu attached. That would do the business for Pain, assuming that he and his employers would have the ghost of a show in any event.

Australia is preparing for a burst of imperialism over the coming of the heir apparent to the British throne. The visit of the Duke of Cornwall and York was long ago planned by Mr. Chamberlain as a part of his scheme of imperial federation. It is hoped that the Australians will be so dazzled by their first view of royalty that they cannot resist the overtures made in its name. As the Duke will go from Australia to Canada, there may be a chance of his visiting Honolulu as did his uncle, the late Duke of Edinburgh, many years ago.

Francis Murphy was not long in getting to work when he reached New Zealand and the papers there report good prospects for him. Many years ago one of his converts, "Dick" Booth, who had been a barber at Ithaca, N. Y., roused all Australia with a blue-ribbon crusade, and going thence to London, won thousands of converts there. Since then a new generation has grown up in the antipodes and Mr. Murphy will have a fresh audience to hear his appeal. It would not be surprising if, as a result of his labors, the South Sea commonwealths should have an enthusiastic temperance revival.

HAWAII'S LANDS.

(Special Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—Commissioner of Public Lands Hermann has completed and sent to the Secretary of the Interior his report upon the Sullivan bill, extending to the Hawaiian Islands the land laws of the United States. The report is as outlined in this correspondence last week. The bill is not recommended for passage and instead the Commissioner recommends that a commission be sent to study the land question before action. The report, while long and complicated, in that it takes up subjects which will not for some time come into consideration, is very clear upon the questions of most importance to the Islands. That is, to be nothing done unless there is full investigation by a commission or by the department.

The matter is left in this shape for the purpose of seeing what Congress will do in the premises. The plan which meets with most favor on the part of the members of the upper House is the sending of a joint commission to spy out the land. This would mean that there should be sent forward perhaps five persons, two from each branch of Congress and one an official of the lands department. This would bring together a mass of talent which would mean that the question would be thoroughly investigated and when any report was made that there would be nothing left uncovered. Should such a commission be sent there would be as chairman perhaps the present chairman of the lands committee of the Senate, Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota, Congressman Lacey of Iowa, chairman of the lands committee of the House, and without doubt two members of the committees of insular affairs, which will also imply that there are other points on which information might be gathered such as the land questions. There will be nothing definite done for several days, as the committee of the Senate will not meet this week.

PEARL HARBOR DREDGING BID

A letter to a member of the Advisory Staff contains this general information:

"Sam Henry is still in Honolulu. I guess there was no further thing about the sinking of the Rio Jacona in Golden Gate, and that is this. Henry wrote a letter to W. H. Clark, his partner, advising him to make a certain bid for dredging a channel at Pearl Harbor. The letter was probably lost. Anyway, Clark submitted a bid amounting to $100,000 and it will probably be accepted by the government. Had he received Henry's letter, he would have bid about $50,000. I am, of course, sure."

Andrew Victor, a woman who died suddenly last Wednesday morning on board the bark W. H. Finn, was the victim of an attack of heart disease brought about by pneumonia and of the

INAUGURATION OF NATION'S EXECUTIVE

It is a law to us all and faithful observance should follow its decrees.

Strong hearts and faithful hands are needed, and fortunately we have them in every part of our beloved country. We are founded on sectionalism has disappeared. Division on public affairs can no longer be traced to the war maps of 1861. Those old differences less and less disturb the judgment when existing problems demand the thought and quickness of the country and the responsibility for their presence as well as for their righteous settlement rests upon us all—more upon me than upon you. There are some national questions in the solution of which patriotism should exclude partisanship. Many of our difficulties will not take them off our hands nor facilitate their adjustment. Distrust of the capacity, integrity and high purposes of the American people will not be an inspiring theme for future contests. Dark pictures and gloomy forebodings are worse than useless. These only becloud, they do not help to point the way of safety and honor. "Hope maketh not ashamed." The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic nor its crisis since have they saved or served it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation and the faith of the descendants has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders. There are obstructionists who despair and who would destroy confidence in the ability of our people to solve wisely and for civilization the mighty problems resting upon them. The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken the unworthy doctrine that we lose our liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under the influence of distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it and in the fear of God will have no equal. The part of progress is seldom smooth. Now things are often found hard to do. Our fathers found them so. We find them so. They are inconvenient. They cost us something. But are we not made better for their effort and sacrifice, and are not those we serve lifted up and blessed?

We will be consoled, too, with the fact that opposition has confronted every onward effort of the republic from its opening hour until now, but without success. With no such purpose of opposition and its every step has exalted freedom and humanity. We are undergoing the same ordeal as did our predecessors nearly a century ago. We are following the course they blazed. They triumphed. Will the success which is ours be less? Will the progress which is ours be less? We are not alone in the world. We are not alone in the history of the world. We are not alone in the struggle for freedom. We are not alone in the struggle for equality. We are not alone in the struggle for justice.
